

IARU Summer Internships

Do you want to spend your summer in an exciting international environment, working at one of the world's leading research universities?

If your answer is 'Yes!', then IARU's Summer Internships may be for you!

What are IARU Summer Internships?

IARU Summer Internships are a new opportunity for students to work on a research project at a leading research university this summer, whilst experiencing a different country.

You will be fully integrated into a research team, and together, you will analyse some of the greatest challenges facing academics in their field of study.

You will also live for two months in a foreign country.

Who can apply?

To be eligible to apply for an IARU Summer Internship, you must:

- be a current enrolled degree seeking student at one of the IARU universities: Australian National University; ETH Zurich; National University of Singapore; Peking University; University of California, Berkeley; University of Cambridge; University of Copenhagen; National University of Singapore; The University of Tokyo; or Yale University;
- have completed at least one full year of university study; and
- be fluent in English.

What are the IARU Internship Opportunities in 2010?

We anticipate that a number of IARU Summer Internship opportunities will be available in 2010. At this stage, the National University of Singapore (NUS) have identified five internship opportunities for IARU students in 2010 (see below).
